

I will use the Data Collisions data set introduced in week one as my basis for the project. Taking note of the severity of the actions and where they occurred, I will try to create code that can predict and prevent these things from happening.